YES, BUT...

The accompanying Tax & Business Alert includes on the back page an article on whether or not paying down one's home mortgage is a good use of savings. While agreeing with most of the discussion, we would add a few comments.

The general priority for the use of savings has several alternative applications more desirable than paying down a long-term, residential mortgage loan with a reasonable interest rate. The usual order of priorities for investing savings is, from our perspective, first, the often mentioned "emergency fund" in an amount sufficient to create comfort in the mind of that particular saver. Second, all tax-deferred plans available to the saver (401(k)s, IRAs, 403(b)s, etc.) should be fully funded. For any remaining, long-term (10 years or more) savings, we suggest consideration of diversified, low-cost stock index funds such as an S&P 500 Index Fund or Total Stock Market Index Fund. These funds provide low-cost, low-tax accumulation that can generally be expected to outperform most other long-term, liquid investments.

For most savers, paying down a market rate (or near market rate) home loan is probably not the best use of long-term savings. However, many people enjoy a significantly enhanced feeling of security from owning a no-debt or low-debt home. For such savers, early payment of their home mortgage debt is probably the next priority after accumulating emergency funds and fully funding all tax-deductible retirement plans.

YEAR-END TAX PLANNING FOR CAPITAL ACQUISITIONS

When thinking about their income taxes for 2019, taxpayers will want to remember that a full write-off of some 2019 asset acquisitions is available. The 2017 Tax Cuts and Jobs Act (The Act) accelerated the tax deductions for some asset purchases, which can significantly reduce 2019 income taxes if the asset is placed in service by December 31, 2019.

Full Write-Off for Equipment and Some Software and Real Estate Improvements

Bonus Depreciation – A 100 percent deduction (bonus depreciation) with no dollar or total investment limit is available to all taxpayers for qualifying property. Qualifying property includes tangible property with a useful life of 20 years or less such as equipment, furnishings, livestock, fences, certain real property improvements, off-the-shelf computer software, etc. but excludes light vehicles discussed below. The 100 percent bonus depreciation is not limited for small businesses nor is it capped at certain dollar levels. Bonus depreciation also is not limited because of the amount of a business's total investment in qualified property, and it can be used to generate net operating losses. It is, as the result of the new law, available for new and most used property. Qualified property must be placed in service during 2019 to obtain the 2019 deduction.

Used property is eligible for 100 percent expensing if the taxpayer (or its predecessor) did not use the property at any time before acquiring it and did not acquire the property from a related party or affiliate, by inheritance, or in a transaction involving any amount of carryover tax basis.

Section 179 Expensing – The depreciation rules have, for many years prior to The Act, allowed a special expensing election (Section 179 Expensing) for small businesses. Taxpayers could elect to treat up to $500,000 (adjusted for inflation) of the cost of any qualifying Section 179 property as an expense in the year of acquisition. This election was phased out for taxpayers acquiring more than $2 million (adjusted for inflation) of property in any year. Section 179 Expensing was modified by the Act and remains in the law. However, the significance of qualifying for expensing under Section 179 has been greatly diminished by the availability of the unlimited 100 percent deduction for new and used qualified property discussed above.

Business Vehicles – There is a larger depreciation and expensing allowance for vehicles used more than 50 percent in a business. Under both the old rules and The Act, depreciation and immediate expensing on luxury passenger vehicles (generally all vehicles weighing less than 6,000 pounds) are subject to annual limitations.

For heavy SUVs, pick-ups, and vans used over 50 percent in business, 100 percent bonus depreciation is allowed – that is, the Act allows the deduction of the business-use portion of the cost in the year of acquisition for such a vehicle (whether new or used) unless it was acquired used from a related party or affiliate, by inheritance, or in a transaction involving carryover tax basis. Vehicles not subject to the luxury car limitation are SUVs, pick-ups, and vans having a manufacturer's gross vehicle weight rating over 6,000 pounds. Examples of suitable heavy vehicles include a Chevy Tahoe, Audi Q7, Buick Enclave, Toyota Sequoia, Ford Explorer, Jeep Grand Cherokee, and most full-size pick-ups. Verification of the gross vehicle weight rating can usually be found on the inside edge of the driver's vehicle door by the hinges.

For example, if in 2019 you buy a new $60,000 heavy SUV used 100 percent in your business, you can deduct the entire $60,000 in 2019. If you used the vehicle 60 percent for business, your first-year bonus depreciation is 60 percent of $60,000, or $36,000. If you buy a used $45,000 heavy SUV, you can deduct the entire cost in 2019 assuming it is 100 percent used in the business. If used 60 percent for business, your deduction would be $27,000 – that is, 60 percent of $45,000.

Real Estate Improvements – The new law does not allow bonus depreciation on newly acquired or constructed real estate with a recovery period of more than 20 years. The recovery period remains 39 years for non-residential real estate and 27.5 years for residential rental property. Certain real estate improvements (for example, most farm and ranch buildings) can be depreciated over 20 years and are eligible for bonus depreciation. Depreciable land improvements, roads, bridges, etc., are 15-year property and, accordingly, are also subject to bonus depreciation.

Tax & Business Alert

OCTOBER 2019

STEP CAREFULLY WITH LOANS BETWIXT A BUSINESS AND ITS OWNER

It's common for owners of closely held businesses to transfer money into and out of the company. But it's critical to make such transfers properly. If you don't, you might hear from the IRS.

WHY LOANS ARE BETTER

When an owner withdraws funds from the company, the transfer can be characterized as compensation, a distribution or a loan. Loans aren't taxable, but compensation is and distributions may be taxable.

If the company is a C corporation, distributions can trigger double taxation — in other words, corporate earnings are taxed once at the corporate level and then again when they're distributed to shareholders (as dividends). Compensation is deductible by the corporation, so it doesn't result in double taxation. (But it will be subject to payroll taxes.)

If the business is an S corporation or other pass-through entity, there's no entity-level tax, so double taxation won't be an issue. Still, loans are advantageous because compensation would be taxable to the owner (and incurs payroll taxes), and distributions, even though maybe not taxable themselves, would reduce an owner's tax basis, which makes it much harder to deduct business losses.

There are also some advantages to treating advances from owners as loans. If they're treated as contributions to equity, for example, any reimbursements by the company may be treated as distributions and possibly be taxable in a C corporation situation.

Loan payments, on the other hand, aren't taxable, apart from the interest, which is deductible by the company. A loan may also give the owner an advantage in the event of the company's bankruptcy, because debt obligations are paid before equity is returned.

HOW TO DEFINE IT

Establishing that an advance or a withdrawal is truly a loan is important. If you don't make that distinction, and the IRS determines that a payment from the business is really a distribution or compensation, you (and, possibly, the company) could end up owing back taxes, penalties and interest.

Whether a transaction is a loan is a matter of intent. It's a loan if the borrower has an unconditional intent to repay the amount received and the lender has an unconditional intent to obtain repayment.

Unfortunately, even if you intend for a transaction to be a loan, the IRS and the courts aren't mind readers. So, it's critical that you document any loans and treat them like other arm's-length transactions. Among other things, you should execute a promissory note and charge a commercially reasonable rate of interest — generally, no less than the applicable federal rate.

Set and follow a fixed repayment schedule and secure the loan using appropriate collateral. (This will also give the lender bankruptcy priority over unsecured creditors.) And you must treat the transaction as a loan in the company's books. Last, you must ensure that the lender makes reasonable efforts to collect in case of default. Also, for borrowers who are owner-employees, you need to ensure that they receive reasonable salaries, to avoid a claim by the IRS that loans are disguised compensation.

LOOKING GOOD

The IRS keeps a wary eye on business owners who borrow from themselves. Our firm can guide you through the process to withstand the scrutiny of the agency's gaze. ■

IS “BUNCHING” MEDICAL EXPENSES STILL FEASIBLE IN 2019?

Some medical expenses may be tax deductible, but only if you itemize deductions and you have enough expenses to exceed the applicable floor for deductibility. With proper planning, you may be able to time controllable medical expenses to your tax advantage.

The Tax Cuts and Jobs Act (TCJA) made bunching such expenses beneficial for some taxpayers. At the same time, certain taxpayers who've benefited from the medical expense deduction in previous years might no longer benefit because of the TCJA's increase to the standard deduction.

THE CHANGES

Various limits apply to most tax deductions, and one type of limit is a “floor,” which means expenses are

TAX CALENDAR

October 15

Personal federal income tax returns for 2018 that received an automatic six-month extension must be filed today and any tax, interest and penalties due must be paid.

- The Financial Crimes Enforcement Network (FinCEN) Report 114, “Report of Foreign Bank and Financial Accounts” (FBAR), must be filed by today, if not filed already, for offshore bank account reporting. (This report received an automatic extension to today if not filed by the original due date of April 15.)
- If a six-month extension was obtained, calendar-year C corporations should file their 2018 Form 1120 by this date.
- If the monthly deposit rule applies, employers must deposit the tax for payments in September for Social Security, Medicare, withheld income tax and nonpayroll withholding.

October 31

The third quarter Form 941 (“Employer’s Quarterly Federal Tax Return”) is due today and any undeposited tax must be deposited. (If your tax liability is less than $2,500, you can pay it in full with a timely filed return.) If you deposited the tax for the quarter in full and on time, you have until November 12 to file the return.

- If you have employees, a federal unemployment tax (FUTA) deposit is due if the FUTA liability through September exceeds $500.

November 15

If the monthly deposit rule applies, employers must deposit the tax for payments in October for Social Security, Medicare, withheld income tax and nonpayroll withholding.

December 16

Calendar-year corporations must deposit the fourth installment of estimated income tax for 2019.

- If the monthly deposit rule applies, employers must deposit the tax for payments in November for Social Security, Medicare, withheld income tax and nonpayroll withholding.

deductible only to the extent that they exceed that floor (typically a specific percentage of your income). One example of a tax break with a floor is the medical expense deduction.

Because it can be difficult to exceed the floor, a common strategy is to “bunch” deductible expenses into one year where possible. The TCJA reduced the floor for the medical expense deduction for 2017 and 2018 from 10% to 7.5% of adjusted gross income (AGI).

However, beginning January 1, 2019, taxpayers may once again deduct only the amount of the unreimbursed allowable medical care expenses for the year that exceeds 10% of their AGI. Medical expenses that aren’t reimbursed by insurance or paid through a tax-advantaged account (such as a Health Savings Account or Flexible Spending Account) may be deductible.

COST SEGREGATION STUDIES CAN BENEFIT BUSINESS OWNERS

Any business owner who’s acquired, constructed or substantially improved a building this year — or even in previous years — should read up on the tax benefits of a cost segregation study. Undertaking one may allow you to accelerate depreciation deductions, which reduce current taxes and boost cash flow.

REAL VS. TANGIBLE

IRS rules generally allow you to depreciate commercial buildings over 39 years. Most times, you’ll depreciate a building’s structural components (such as walls, windows, HVAC systems, elevators, plumbing and wiring) along with the building, and therefore over its same recovery period.

Personal property (such as equipment, machinery, furniture and fixtures) is eligible for accelerated depreciation, usually over five or seven years. And land improvements (fences, outdoor lighting and parking lots, for example) are depreciable over 15 years.

Too often, businesses allocate all or most of a building’s acquisition or construction costs to real property, overlooking opportunities to allocate costs to shorter-lived personal property or land improvements. A cost segregation study combines accounting and engineering techniques to identify building costs that are properly allocable to tangible personal property rather than real property.

ITEMIZED DEDUCTIONS

If your total itemized deductions won’t exceed your standard deduction, bunching medical expenses into 2019 won’t save you tax. The TCJA nearly doubled the standard deduction. For 2019, it’s $12,200 for singles and married couples filing separately, $18,350 for heads of households, and $24,400 for married couples filing jointly.

If your total itemized deductions for 2019 will exceed your standard deduction, then bunching nonurgent medical procedures and other controllable expenses into 2019 may allow you to exceed the floor and benefit from the medical expense deduction. Controllable expenses might include prescription drugs, eyeglasses, contact lenses, hearing aids, dental work, and some types of elective surgery.

EXPLORING THE CONCEPT

As mentioned, bunching doesn’t work for everyone. For help determining whether you could benefit, please contact us. ■

ENHANCED BREAKS

The Tax Cuts and Jobs Act enhanced certain depreciation-related tax breaks, which has in turn renewed interest in cost segregation studies. Among other things, the act permanently increased limits on Section 179 expensing. Sec. 179 allows you to immediately deduct the entire cost of qualifying equipment or other fixed assets up to specified thresholds.

Furthermore, it increased first-year bonus depreciation from 50% to 100% for qualified property acquired and placed in service after September 27, 2017, and before January 1, 2023.

CONSIDER IT

Under the right circumstances, a cost segregation study can yield substantial tax benefits. But every business may not need to undertake the time, energy and expense to conduct one. To find out whether a study would be worthwhile for your company, contact us. ■

If you're a homeowner and manage your finances well, you might have extra cash after you've paid your monthly bills. What should you do with this extra money? Some would say make additional mortgage payments toward your principal to pay off your mortgage early. Others would say: No, invest those dollars in the stock market!

The decision is very much about risk vs. return. There's little, if any, risk in prepaying a mortgage, because you already know what your rate of return will be: the interest rate on your mortgage. For instance, if your mortgage interest rate is 4.5%, this would be the return earned by every dollar that goes toward prepayment (not factoring in the mortgage interest deduction if you qualify).

However, if you invest the money in the stock market, you'll assume much more risk. The level of risk depends on the assets you invest in, but there's no such thing as a risk-free investment.

Your mortgage interest rate is indeed an important factor. If your rate is relatively low, so is the return from prepaying your mortgage. The final decision for many people comes down to whether they believe they can earn a higher return investing the money than they would prepaying their mortgage.

Clearly there's the potential to outperform your mortgage interest rate by investing your money for the long term. Remember, though, that the stock market may be volatile in the short term and offers no guarantees.

There's no single answer to the "pay down the mortgage or invest in the market?" question. We can provide additional, more specific guidance on making the right decision for you. ■
